Karyn was appointed the first Chief Executive of Community Justice Scotland in 2016 and has overall responsibility for raising awareness of the value that community justice brings to individuals and communities. Her aim is to provide leadership in a highly complex sector that covers multiple professional and organisational operating environments.

Previously, Karyn spent 21 years working with the police and helped establish the Scottish Violence Reduction Unit in 2005. She is a member of the WHO Violence Prevention Alliance and also helped set up the Medics Against Violence charity in Scotland, which speak to school children about violence reduction, injury and keeping safe.

She previously developed a plan to tackle violence for the Metropolitan Police and published work on Armed Robbery teams, Alcohol and Violence Interventions and Violence Reduction. She is a Non-Executive Director at Scottish Professional Football League, a board member of Simon Community Scotland and holds an Honorary Doctorate from the University of Glasgow, an Honorary Masters from the Open University and is an Honorary Lecturer at the University of Glasgow.
