Speaker Biographies

Conference Chair: Sheriff Lindsay Wood

Sheriff Lindsay Wood was born in Hamilton and educated in Motherwell and Arbroath. He graduated LLB from Dundee University in 1977. He was appointed a Sheriff in Glasgow in 2003, having previously been a court solicitor for over 20 years. He was a partner and then managing partner of Thornton's Solicitors, before he moved to the Bench. As a Sheriff in the busiest court in Europe, he deals with a wide variety of cases including civil actions, domestic abuse cases, jury trials and Fatal Accident Inquiries.

He has presided in specialist courts in Glasgow including the commercial court and the drug court which he has sat in for 14 years. His court has a constant stream of visitors including law students, academics, politicians and judges from literally all over the world. He featured in a BBC documentary "Avalanche" which provided an insight into how the criminal justice system deals with the drug problems which Scotland faces. He has spoken at drug conferences in the USA and Europe alongside former addicts Martin Sheen of the West Wing and Matthew Perry from Friends and his drug court has been favourably highlighted on BBC Newsnight. He has assisted Norway, France, Italy, England and Northern Ireland in establishing Drug Courts.

Sheriff Wood has sat on various tribunals and charitable organisations and until recently he was the President of the Sheriffs' Association of Scotland. He considers himself particularly fortunate to be a Sheriff in Glasgow with all the challenges it brings every single day.

Sheriff Frank Crowe

Sheriff Frank Crowe is a graduate of the University of Dundee. He served with the Procurator Fiscal Service from 1975-2001; then appointed Sheriff of Tayside Central and Fife. Between 2004 and 2008 he was Director of Judicial Studies in Edinburgh; and since 2009 has served as Resident Sheriff at Edinburgh Sheriff Court.

Sheriff Crowe is a former member of Lothian Victim Support Scheme Management Committee and a former member of the Council of the Law Society of Scotland. From 2013 -2016 he was President of the Royal High School Club and is currently a board member of Apex Scotland.

Sheriff Iain Fleming

Iain Fleming graduated with a LLB Hons from the University of Strathclyde in 1983. He was admitted as a solicitor in 1985. He was a trainee solicitor, assistant and partner with Paton and Co before becoming a partner with Fleming and Reid in 1990. He became a solicitor advocate in 2001, and was appointed as a part-time sheriff in 2005, and Convenor of Mental Health Tribunals in 2010. In 2014 Iain was appointed Sheriff in Greenock until March 2017 when he transferred to Glasgow.

Dr Saket Priyadarshi

Saket Priyadarshi is the Associate Medical Director in Greater Glasgow and Clyde Alcohol and Drug Services. He is a graduate of the University of Glasgow Medical School and qualified as a General Practitioner in 2003. Through working as a GP in deprived areas in the West of Scotland, he developed an interest in the management of substance misuse problems. Saket is a member of the Glasgow City Alcohol and Drug Partnership and of Scotland's National Harms Reduction Group, a part of the Scottish Government's Partnership on Alcohol and Drugs.

Ian Hamilton

Ian is a lecturer and researcher at the University of York. His work focuses on the relationship between drugs and mental health, reflecting his previous clinical work as a mental health nurse. He has published a number of academic papers and writes blogs and opinion pieces for a wider audience.

Shona Malone

Shona qualified as a nurse in 1989 working in acute medical receiving at the Victoria Infirmary for 7 years. In 1996 her career took her in a new direction when she began working in Prison healthcare, initially as a Nurse followed by Clinical Manager then Health Care Manager. During this time Shona worked at HMPs Barlinnie, Old and new Low Moss, Cornton Vale, Glenochil and Greenock recognising the difficulties facing those coming into custody and the complexity of their physical, mental health and social needs. In 2015 Shona moved out of Prison Health Care to Alcohol Drug and Recovery Services, commencing her role within the Drug Court where she continues to provide leadership and care to those involved in the Criminal Justice System. Shona qualified as a nurse in 1989 working in Acute Medical Receiving at the Glasgow.

Ruth McReynolds

Ruth has been working in the social care/addiction field since 1987, working in the voluntary sector with a number of agencies including the Talbot Association, Aberlour Child Care Trust and Turning Point Scotland. She joined Social Work services in 2003 as a Senior Addiction Worker with the community addiction team, prior to joining the Drug Court in 2006.

Kelda Gaffney

Kelda Gaffney is a service manager for Alcohol and Drug Recovery Services and Community Homelessness in Glasgow City HSCP. Kelda is a qualified social worker, having worked with children and families as a practitioner, manager and chairperson for twelve years, with post-qualifications in Child Protection, Practice Teaching and Securing Children's Futures. Transferring to addiction services in 2013, Kelda manages North East Glasgow community services and citywide services with Alcohol Related Brain Damage, Homeless Addiction and Addiction Psychology, and assumes a lead role for children and young people affected by parental substance use through Glasgow City Alcohol and Drug Partnership.

Professor Charlotte Colman

Since 2007, Prof. Dr. Charlotte Colman has been seconded to the research group "Institute for International Research on Criminal Policy" (IRCP) attached to the Department of Criminology, Criminal Law and Social Law at Ghent University, Belgium. She has been involved - as a senior researcher, consultant and co-ordinator in several international, EU and national research projects in the area of drug policy evaluation, recovery and desistance, alternatives to punishment or conviction for drug-involved offenders, drug-related crime and drug supply.

Her PhD in Criminology (2014) focused on (turning points) in the recovery and desistance process of offenders who misuse drugs. In 2017, she was granted a FWO postdoctoral fellowship to continue her research on recovery capital in desistance and recovery. Charlotte Colman also teaches drug policy, drug phenomenon, criminology of criminal justice and sociology of law to Bachelor and Master Students of Criminology and Law.

Faye Murfet

Since 2009 Faye has been the Coordinator for South Ayrshire Alcohol and Drug Partnership (ADP) and has been leading on the phased implementation of a new recovery model, which helps individuals take charge of their own recovery and has an asset-based community development approach at its heart.

Faye has been instrumental in the development of a number of recovery initiatives including RecoveryAyr, a registered SCIO charity with over 40 volunteers and 100 members; Café Hope, a local recovery café which celebrated its 4th birthday in 2017; the ADP Volunteer Peer Worker Training project which provides opportunities for individuals in recovery and family members to undertake work-based placements whilst completing SVQ qualifications; and the Steps for Change project, which provides a range of confidence building and training opportunities to support people to move forward with their recovery. She is a Board Member and Secretary of IFDAS - River Garden Auchincruive.
